

SEE COOLIDGE CANDIDATE DESPITE HIS WISHES

STOCKS QUICKLY RECOVERED FROM EARLY DECLINES

Coolidge Announcement Caused Breaks at Opening Today

New York, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The stock market broke from three to nearly sixteen points on the first onslaught of selling which followed President Coolidge's statement that he did not choose to be a candidate in 1928 and immediately staged a recovery which reduced or wiped out most of the early losses and carried a few issues to record high levels.

Trading was heavy as initial losses in the popular issues ran from one to eight half points or more.

U. S. Steel Common opened at 134 1/4, off 3 1/4; and General Motors opened at 222, off 6 points.

The first sale of Atchison was at 193, off 5 1/4.

Was "Coolidge Market"

The stock market, having completed an uninterrupted advance since June 28, was in a vulnerable position for such an unexpected announcement. The current "bull" movement started more than three years ago and frequently has been referred to as a "Coolidge market". The only serious interruption to the advance took place in March, 1926.

Cotton futures broke about $2.50 a bale at the opening, following a sensational decline in the Liverpool market.

Rally Promoted

Commercial Solvents broke 1 1/4 points on the first sale. Strong buying support was quickly forthcoming, the largest losses being recorded on initial sales in many instances. Rallying tendencies were quite pronounced in some of the recognized leaders. General Motors rallied from a low of 221 1/4 to 227 1/4. Foreign exchange opened steady.

In the stock market, the initial breaks, as a rule, proved to be the worst. Despite the severity of the declines in most issues the reaction was orderly.

The recoveries suggested the presence of strong banking support. General Motors rallied from 221 1/4 to 227 1/4. U. S. Steel Common from 134 1/4 to 138 1/4. Baldwin from 244 1/4 to 248 1/4. General Electric from 124 1/4 to 128 1/4. Westinghouse Electric from 81 to 87 1/4. Atchison from 193 to 197, and Union Pacific from 187 1/4 to 190 1/4.

FULLER DELAYS REPORT SACCO-VANZETTI CASE

Expected Decision is Postponed 'til Thursday by Chief

Boston, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Governor Fuller's meeting with his executive council which was to have been held today has been postponed until tomorrow it was announced today.

Although no explanatory statement was made, it was surmised at the state house that the delay was to enable Governor Fuller to submit to the council his findings in the case of Sacco and Vanzetti, radicals under sentence of death for murder.

The two prisoners met the day after they had the past several days, even though they awoke in the death house to which they were transferred last evening.

Sacco entered upon the eighteenth day of his hunger strike. Vanzetti had a hearty breakfast.

American and British

Missionaries in Zone

Shanghai, Aug. 3.—(AP)—A check of available lists shows that 34 American and European missionaries were in the northern part of China's remote province of Kansu when the region was visited by the May 23 earthquake, in which, according to some estimates, more than 100,000 persons lost their lives. The missionaries are all believed to be alive except the sister superior of the Constantinian Society Divine Word Mission in Sisiang.

The group includes five Americans. Missionaries and others familiar with the area express the opinion that the quake severely affected 20,000 square miles, which contains thousands of cliff dwellers.

Lita Chaplin Changes

Lawyers in Her Suit

Los Angeles, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Lita Grey Chaplin, today switched lawyers in her fight for a divorce and a part of the fortune of her husband, Charlie Chaplin, film comedian.

L. L. Young, W. K. Young and Milton Young, who were associated with Mrs. Chaplin's uncle, E. T. Mc Murray, as counsel for the comedienne's wife, announced they had withdrawn from the case.

"Differences in the matter of policy and procedure have caused us to withdraw," L. L. Young said.

Terse Items of News Gathered in Dixon During Day

THIRD MEX. FINED

Sigmond Lemon, Mexican, who was the third man implicated in the fight staged east of the city Monday night, for which Salgado and Cruz, Mexicans, were arrested and fined, was arrested late Tuesday afternoon by Sheriff Miller. He was taken before Police Magistrate A. E. Simonson who fined him $5 and costs.

PAYS TO ADVERTISE

A classified ad in The Telegraph, inserted by the owner of a white Boston bull dog by its owner, a member of the Brundage Carnival Co., which showed in Dixon last week, resulted in the dog being returned to its owner Tuesday. The pet was found by Miss Violet, Helfrich of Polo, who notified The Telegraph, which in turn sent word to the owner at Peoria Monday evening. The man motored to Dixon Tuesday and then went to Polo to reclaim his pet.

NEW EXPRESS TRUCK

The American Express Co. has placed a new automobile truck in service in Dixon to expedite handling its business.

OPEN CUT-OUT: FINE

Elmer Walker was fined $5 and costs by Police Magistrate A. E. Simonson Tuesday evening on charge of operating his automobile with cut-out open. The arrest was made by Chief Van Bibber and Officer Glesmer.

SUFFERERS BROKEN RIBS

Miss Crete Dillon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dillon of Sterling, whose mother was formerly Miss Crete Blackman of Dixon, recently suffered several fractured ribs in a fall from a horse on a ranch near Salt Lake City, Utah, where she is visiting.

HIGHWAY OFFICIALS HERE

Gael S. Hoag, Secretary of the Lincoln Highway Ass'n., with headquarters in Detroit, was in Dixon this morning on his annual trip of inspection over the great transcontinental highway. He was accompanied by S. E. Bradt of DeKalb, formerly head of the Illinois State Highway Dept., who was recently made state consultant for the Lincoln Highway Ass'n., succeeding Dan Corkings of DeKalb.

BOYS CLASS IN CAMP

Rev. O. F. Shaw, pastor of the Brethren church at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, is here with a class of boys from his Sunday school. They are in camp for a week at Lowell Park. Rev. Shaw will remain over to attend the Bible conference to be held next week at Assembly Park. Mr. Shaw was formerly pastor of the Brethren church of this city.

COL. BRINTON'S VIEW

Col. William Brinton when asked this morning to give a statement regarding the statement of President Coolidge, said: "The statement of the President shook the stock markets a lot. He couldn't help but take the nomination if given to him. No man too big to refuse the nomination."

CRUCIAL GAME FRIDAY

Perhaps the most important baseball game of the Industrial League of this city will be played Friday evening between the I. N. U. and the Merchant Clerks' teams at Brown Field. If the Clerks win this game it will tie the two teams in question. Batteries—I. N. U. team, Prestegard and Skeeton; Merchant Clerks' team, Joe (Smoky) Miller and Jack Pierce. Umpires—Ward Miller and Frank Bovery.

TO SEE GRANDSON

Mrs. David Law and Miss Jean McGinnis motored to Milwaukee, Tuesday morning to visit for a week with David Law, Jr., and family. Many Dixon people will be interested in knowing that a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. David Law, Jr., one week ago last Sunday and he was given the name of David Law the 3rd.

DEEDS FOR LOTS SOON

Ralph E. Unangst, son of Rev. Unangst, formerly of Dixon, is in the city today on business connected with the Dixon Community Beach property in Wisconsin, of which he is supervisor. He stated that within ten days all who have purchased lots on the beach and have completed their payments on them will receive the deeds.

CITY COUNCIL MET

The city council met in regular monthly session last night and bills to the amount of $5257.42 were allowed and ordered paid. The I. N. U. Company filed a request to run a high power line along the river bank next to the parking ground. To do this it will be necessary for the company to erect a tower, the greater part of which will be on the company's ground. The request was laid upon the table to be acted upon at the next regular meeting. Mayor Palmer and all commissioners were present.

MANY TELEGRAMS SHOW SURPRISE OF PARTY POWERS

President is Keenly Interested in Reaction to Statement

Rapid City, Aug. 3.—(AP)—A great stack of telegrams was laid before President Coolidge today attesting the widespread reaction and surprise to his statement that he does not choose to run again.

Mr. Coolidge had scarcely left his office yesterday after making his unexpected statement before the wires started humming.

Meanwhile Mr. Coolidge settled back into his accustomed way of saying nothing once he had made his statement, apparently content for the present to let the country place such interpretation upon it as it chooses. He was interested, however, in the comment.

There was a general consensus here that yesterday's statement would be all. If the statement actually means Mr. Coolidge intends to retire March 4, 1929, no matter what pressure might be brought to bear, it was held that even so, little information could be expected as to his plans when he would relinquish office.

It's Up to Party

While there were some who professed to see in the announcement a determination to avoid the 1928 campaign, others took the expression of Senator Capper, of Kansas, a summer White House guest, as their impression of the situation.

"I cannot see that the announcement materially changes the situation," he said. "It places the responsibility squarely with the republican party as to its choice of a nominee next year."

Mr. Capper reported that the President was deeply amazed with the consternation his announcement had caused among the correspondents.

There is nothing here to indicate that the statement will cause any consternation in Mr. Coolidge's activity in the Black Hills where he plans to remain until the first week in September.

HOOPER'S COMMENT

Palo Alto, Calif., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Secretary Hoover commenting today on President Coolidge's announcement declared:

"I regret the suggestion in the President's statement. However, I still believe as I stated in Chicago two weeks ago, that President Coolidge should be renominated and re-elected."

Have Rooms for 600

Visitors at Meeting

When the Rock River Bible Conference opens at Assembly Park on Sunday, a large number of visitors from other cities will be in attendance. The Hospitality Committee has a large task in securing accommodations for all. Dixon citizens have been asked to open their homes and the committee has met with a generous response. About two hundred homes are listed with ample rooms for six hundred persons. A uniform rate of $6 per week per person or $1 per night is being charged. This does not include meals. The conference program will no doubt attract thousands of people from the surrounding states.

HOPEFUL NAVAL ARMS MEET MAY BE SUCCESSFUL

Japanese Compromise Plan Be Result in Naval Holiday

Geneva, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Announcement that the six delegates at the naval conference supplemented by three or four others would meet today to discuss the new situation created by Japanese compromise plan stirred the hopes of these conference circles in which a belief is still held that a treaty can eventually be drawn up.

Whatever the decision, if any is felt to depend upon the verdict of the British cabinet meeting in London.

The American state department has been heard from by its delegation although in what sense the American spokesmen declined to say.

Hugh S. Gibson, chief American delegate, meanwhile has considerable liberty of action as to calling off or proceeding with the plenary session set for tomorrow.

STRENGTH IN DOUBT

Washington, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The fate of the Japanese provisional holiday proposals at Geneva and of the conference may hinge on the definition given to the mention of authorized program in the Japanese suggestion.

Overnight official advices apparently still left in doubt the exact cruiser strength which the British government would be permitted to acquire by the end of 1931.

Should the proposal be interpreted to mean that the British authorized program in ships built, building or appropriated for only, the tonnage to be reached in cruisers by that country by the end of 1931 would be approximately 380,000. The British would be required to abandon about 68,000 tons in projected cruiser programs.

While that is more than the Washington government believes necessary either for Great Britain or the United States, there were intimations that Secretary Kellogg with his advisors were studying the Japanese formula with the hope that it may hold a basis for at least a provisional four year holiday agreement.

NO IMMEDIATE RIOTS IN OHIO MINING FIELDS

Adj. General Reports on Inspection of Danger Zones

Columbus, O., Aug. 3.—(AP)—With assurances from the Governors of Indiana and Illinois that they will join in asking central competitive field coal miners and operators to make another attempt to settle their wage dispute, Gov. Donahue today postponed asking Ohio miners and operators to meet while he turned his attention to reports of disturbances in the eastern Ohio fields.

Adjutant General Henderson reported to the Governor there is no place as yet where all possibilities of local control have been exhausted. Until local civil authorities fail in handling disturbances between union and non-union men, military forces will not invade the field, the Governor has announced.

Report Durant Trying to Buy Big Film Co.

Los Angeles, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The Examiner says it is reported in financial circles that George J. Whelan, tobacco magnate, and W. C. Durant, automobile manufacturer and financier, are negotiating for the purchase outright of Universal Pictures Corporation.

The approximate purchase price is reported to be $10,000,000.

Representative Comment on Pres. Coolidge's Note

(BY THE AP)

Representative comment from men in the public eye upon President Coolidge's statement that he does not "choose" to run in 1928 follows:

Vice President Dawes: "His decision will be received with regret by millions of his countrymen."

Former Gov. Lowden of Illinois, republican: "I know of no man who has run away from the presidency."

Governor Smith of New York, democrat: "No comment."

Franklin D. Roosevelt, who nominated Gov. Smith at last democratic convention: "Interesting if conclusive."

Senator Smoot, republican, Utah: "I believe if the republican convention decided that it wants him to run he will do so."

Senator Shipstead, farmer-labor, Minnesota: "Cal came and he saw and sensed the revolt of the west."

William Allen White, Kansas editor: "Until he says rather definitely, 'take your measly job and stick it in the mud' he probably will remain in the hands of his friends, one of whom I hope to be."

Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana: "The wise decision of President Coolidge not again to become a candidate will be approved by most Americans."

Senator Capper, republican, Kansas: "It places the responsibility squarely with the republican party."

Charles D. Hillis, vice chairman republican national committee: "I think he intends this to be final."

Senator Johnson, republican, California: "It is a most astonishing thing."

Chicago Daily News: "Mr. Coolidge's party, with such men as Lowden, Dawes and Hoover, to mention no others, available for national leader, need emit no shrieks of anguish over Mr. Coolidge's words even if it chooses to accept them as irrevocable."

Chicago Journal: "It is essential to Mr. Coolidge's political interests, if under the pressure of eastern bankers and high tariff advocates he is 'forced' to run, that he seem not to be seeking a third term."

Boston Transcript: "Calvin Coolidge declines re-election, an act whose approximate prototype is found in the refusal of George Washington to permit himself to be re-elected. The familiar New England phrase employed by the President is capable of one construction in this part of the country 'I am unwilling to run for president in 1928'."

New York Evening World: "President Coolidge has definitely taken himself out of consideration as a possible candidate for re-election."

Josephus Daniels, former Secretary of Navy, in the Raleigh, N. C., News and Observer: "What does Mr. Coolidge mean? Either he has been unfortunate in conveying his intention not to run or he chooses his declaration as the inauguration of a campaign for the nomination."

Detroit News: "When history is written, the announcement by President Coolidge may be rated as the biggest act of his political career."

New York Evening Sun: "The utterance naturally deserves to be read as it was written. While the President does not choose, he does not forbid."

Grand Rapids Man is Elected Head K. of C.

Portland, Ore., Aug. 3.—(AP)—For the first time in 18 years, something besides routine is entering into the election of supreme officers of the Knights of Columbus in convention here. This is because James A. Flaherty of Philadelphia will retire as supreme knight, M. H. Carmody of Grand Rapids, Mich., deputy supreme grand knight, was expected to succeed Flaherty at the election today.

French Aviator to Sue Charles Levine

Paris, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Maurice Drouhin, French aviator, today began action against Charles A. Levine seeking to compel him to fulfill the terms of their tentative contract signed early in July, when Drouhin was chosen to pilot Levine's monoplane Columbia in a return Atlantic flight from Paris to New York.

POLITICAL HEADS MUDDLED: VARIED OPINIONS HEARD

Friends Think Party Will Renominate Him Anyway

BULLETIN.

Rapid City, S. D., Aug. 3.—(AP)—While the country speculated as to just what was meant by President Coolidge's statement that "he does not choose" to run for another term, the conviction he meant that he wished to retire from the White House gained ground here today.

Washington, Aug. 3.—(AP)—A night of speculation left Washington political heads still muddled today over President Coolidge's terse announcement that he did not "choose" to run for President in 1928.

Instead of clarifying the situation as the time approaches for active campaigning, the action brought a vast outpouring of opinions illustrated in the uncertainty in the minds of both friends and opponents of the administration.

A majority of the opinions were informal, because there was a great reluctance on the part of politicians to commit themselves on the question which was on every lip:

What if Nominated?

"Will the President run if he is nominated?"

Senator Smoot, of Utah, an administration stalwart, thought he would, although he would prefer not to.

Others said he was definitely out of the race.

Still others said the issue had been put up to the republican party, with the President in a position to await developments.

The thought persistently expressed was concerned with the course to be taken by the friends of the President who have insisted that he would be nominated whether or not he chose to serve another term.

The gossip here long has been persistent that with Mr. Coolidge eliminated, Secretary Hoover might feel himself free to get into the race along with Vice President Dawes, Frank O. Lowden, Speaker Nicholas Longworth, Senator Borah, and others who have been classed as eligibles.

See Hoover As Heir

Whether Mr. Hoover would inherit the Coolidge strength has been another subject of much speculation.

He has sided with Mr. Coolidge on many of the fighting points of his administration, including the vetoed McNary-Haugen bill some of whose features were endorsed by Mr. Dawes and Lowden.

Notwithstanding the persistent Hoover talk there has been no indication that he was being groomed as the administration candidate.

On the surface, with the exception of the Lowden candidacy, activities on behalf of the other republican high lights have been unostentatious.

There are many politicians in Washington who are waiting to see whether President Coolidge will amplify his statement, but they confess they have little reason to believe he will.

ONE OF SHELTON BROS. ARRESTED AT E. ST. LOUIS

Roy Shelton, Aged 40, Wanted for Parole Violation

East St. Louis, Ill., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Roy Shelton, 40, brother of Carl, Earl and Bernie Shelton, southern Illinois gangsters, was arrested here last night after being sought for two years for violating his parole from Chester Prison. He was returned to the penitentiary today.

Convicted of burglary and larceny, Shelton was sentenced to an indeterminate term, April 23, 1923. He obtained a parole February 19, 1924, on condition he report once a month to penitentiary authorities. In March, 1925, he failed to report and an order was sent out for his arrest.

In a garage at the rear of the house where Shelton was found, parole officers also found an automobile which was reported stolen from Mt. Vernon, Ill.

Rain Badly Needed in North Part State

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Light rain fall over the north half of the state failed to relieve the drought last week, leaving corn in need of rain, the weekly crop report of the United States meteorologist said today. The crop is good, however, in southern and central Illinois.

Wheat is mostly harvested and the oats harvest continued. Oats yield is decidedly poor. Cow peas and soy beans are growing favorably. Pastures are good except in north.

Menus for the Family

BY SISTER MARY

BREAKFAST—Baked apples, cereal, cream, broiled cottage ham, potatoes hashed in milk, bran muffins, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Cream of carrot soup, croutons, shredded lettuce and egg sandwiches, beet pie, lemonade.

DINNER—Fruit cocktail, planked white fish, scalloped potatoes, stuffed green peppers, diplomatic pudding, rye rolls, milk, coffee.

Beet pie is quite out-of-the-ordinary and very good. It resembles a red rhubarb pie but is somewhat richer.

Beet Pie

Four cups beets, 3-4 cup granulated sugar, 1 teaspoon grated nutmeg, 1 lemon, 2 tablespoons butter.

Cook six or eight beets in boiling water until tender. Drop into cold water and slip off skins. Cut in slices about 1-2 inch thick and measure. There should be four cups.

Arrange in a pie dish lined with plain pastry. Mix sugar and nutmeg with grated rind of lemon and sprinkle evenly over beets. Sprinkle with juice of lemon and dot with butter.

Put on top crust and bake 40 minutes in a moderately hot oven.

MOTHERHOOD IS ANSWER TO

By Olive Roberts Barton

THAT "TERRIBLE LONELINESS"

John Augustine Ryan said in a recent debate on birth control, "People who wish to play so prominent a part in the affairs of their day that they do not find time for family and children, who are unwilling to partake in the struggles and hardships of the common lot, are doomed to extinction."

He adds, "Those who can make the combination of satisfying their ambition and raising a fair-sized family will survive."

Beatrice Forbes-Robertson Hale, an authority on the woman question, makes the assertion in a recent address that a woman with work, a happy marriage and health has about all there is of value in life.

She speaks, however, of the terrible spiritual loneliness that has come to women through their new-found freedom.

Can it be that Mrs. Hale does not see that she is answering her own question? The freedom gained by childlessness, she is asserting quite clearly, does not compensate for the loss of spiritual peace and contentment that goes with motherhood.

To do her justice, she admits that mothers should teach daughters that the exercise of powers of maternity comes before work.

So there you have it. We talk of careers, and work, and home and happiness, and new-found freedom. We talk of the right and wrong of birth control, of woman's duty to the race and the state and a thousand other things.

We always finish where we start. It is like blowing at the moon. No matter what a woman has a right to do or not to do, the possession of a child (or children) presents the "terrible loneliness" that Mrs. Hale speaks of.

"Those who can make the combination of satisfying their ambition and raising a fair-sized family will survive." Does not that sound like the answer to the whole question?

BUILDING OF AIRPORTS.

In a recent survey by the government it has been disclosed that the country has been steadily preparing for air traffic to an extent beyond general knowledge. Washington had been giving particular attention to government fields and to mail routes and until this survey was made it did not have accurate information on the local activities that had been in progress.

It was found that there are 8644 fields equipped with lights, hangars, runways and repair shops. There are 3000 additional fields, unimproved, but suitable for refuge of air navigators. They are declared safe for landing or ascent. Among these are 207 municipal airports, fifty of which have been opened within the last year. A hundred cities now are engaged in the projects, large and small.

Many of the ports enumerated are the result of enthusiasm of local fliers and are not on the defined air lanes. Their existence, however, is a forerunner to the more extensive air traffic that is expected to develop.

THE PRESIDENT BECOMES A SPORT.

Regardless of the political significance or insignificance which Calvin Coolidge has made of the presidency, there can be no question as to what the presidency has made of Calvin Coolidge. He is far different from the man he was when he emerged from Massachusetts.

That earlier Coolidge was a man who had an eye for nothing but business. He had no hobbies, indulged in no recreations. "I like the theatre," he once remarked dryly to an interviewer, "but I never have time to go to any shows." He never danced. In society he was a fifth wheel. He didn't even fish. The sporting instinct which is supposed to be in every man was in Mr. Coolidge an undeveloped gland.

His years in Washington have slowly changed Mr. Coolidge and he is emerging today a better sport. That it is all political persiflage and publicity, as his bitterest enemies charge, is open to doubt. Mrs. Coolidge probably had a hand in the emergence of the cocoon. That Mr. Coolidge will ever be a butterfly is doubtful. As an intermediate chrysalis, he is doing well.

EXPLAINING EMPTY CHURCHES.

A song in the old school singing books wailed most dolefully about "parents don't visit the schools." Several verses were devoted to the sorry fact that parents visited their neighbors, their relatives, went to market, but the eternal refrain moaned, "but parents don't visit the schools."

A companion song making its moan about people who don't visit the churches should be written, according to recent research on the facts of church attendance.

Church membership has so fallen off within a decade that the researchers are reluctant to issue actual figures, believing they would be too alarming. They do, however, give causes.

They mention the economic burden of helping support a church, the lowered moral tone of the nation following the World War, and the trouble of transferring church membership.

That last cause is not elaborated upon, but there is more to it than appears on the surface.

People do move these days. They do not live, marry, rear their children and die in the same community as families did when this nation was an agricultural one.

Industrial jobs send heads of families and families fitting from one town and city to another. The inevitable feeling is that life in one place is so fleeting that it is not worth while to become in any sense an integral part of a community and the church loses with the individual.

MORE IDOLS FALL.

This is the day of idol shattering. Modern immodesty and frankness having admitted that these times are out of point, prying eyes have delved into old history, old court records, old dairies to prove that all times have always been out of joint.

The latest of the idols to fall is that of the Puritan maiden. Prim Evangelines and Priscillas were not the shy maidens they have been painted in New England song and story. They often got tight, they were arrested and put in stocks for wearing short skirts, they broke the Sabbath, and held petting parties, say these sleuths in history.

Verily, verily, if there is a saint left standing in her niche, she had best look to her foundations and see that all records of her past are destroyed, for in the modern passion to dig up dirt, even the remote past is not being allowed to keep its chastity.

A society known as the Irish Jews of America has been formed in Brooklyn. We're waiting to see what the Irish Lithuanians are going to do about this.

A couple asks for a divorce because "they have equally strong minds." Is it impertinent to ask how two people of equally strong minds ever came to marry?

A section hand in New York state inherited $500,000, but finished the day's work after he had been informed of his new riches. Maybe he was trying to get a little publicity.

THE THYMITES
STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

The others went ahead all right and soon the candy was pure white. "I guess we all have finished," said the Taffy Man, aloud. "Just put your taffy on my shelf, with that that I have pulled myself." Then as the Thymites eyed their work, it made them feel real proud.

"Say, can we eat some?" Clowdy cried. "We'll know how good it is, when tried." The Taffy Man just looked at him, then answered, very quick. "Say, lad, when you were pulling that, you ate enough to make you fat. Be careful you don't eat too much, or it will make you sick."

Of course the Taffy Man was right. Each one had had more than a bite. And so they all were satisfied to wait till after awhile. They sat around an hour or so, and then they all saw Cappy go into the house to sneak a piece. This made the whole bunch smile.

Their new friend started all the bunch by shouting, "Say, I have a bunch. I guess I'll build a taffy boat. I think that would be grand." The whole bunch shouted, "Gee, that's good. We surely wish you really would. And, say, if you will show us how, we'll gladly lend a hand."

So, off their kind old new friend ran and soon returned with monstrous pan. "Twas filled with luscious taffy that would make a dozen boats. 'If kind attention now is paid,' said he, 'the ship will soon be made. Be sure and put the taffy on the ship—not down your throats.'"

So everybody went to work, and not a one was known to shirk. The little ship soon took real form, on quite a wondrous scale. The Taffy Man piled taffy high, and moulded it with watchful eye. In about an hour the ship was done, and ready for a sail.

(The Thymites go sailing on the good ship Taffy in the next story.)

An Ex-Buck PRIVATE goes back to FRANCE

Distances in France! Considering the time required in 1918 and the time that is consumed today, a comparison is almost unbelievable.

Sedan was the farthest point reached by American troops before the Armistice went into effect—away up at the apex it was—yet it's only about four hours from Paris.

In a sight-seeing bus, tourists now leave Paris in the morning, go to Chateau-Thierry, Rheims, through the Champagne and to Verdun—and return—in two days.

It is possible to hire a car in Verdun for 2 francs the kilometer and see Vauquois Hill, Montfaucon, Romagne, Grand Pre, Landres-St. Georges, Dun-Sur-Meuse and Samogneux—all in the same day.

The entire St. Mihiel salient from Ponta-Mousson to St. Mihiel and over to Verdun is easily done in a day's run.

Distances in France! Won by feet and yards in 1918—reeled off now in minutes. A turn in the road and a village is sprawled out ahead. It may be Very of Cheppy or Epinonville; it may be Torcy or Lucy-de-Borcuage or Juveny. Just for an instant it is there, quiet and peaceful, and then—in the instant as an effort is made to visualize the struggle required to capture that town nine years ago—it is far behind.

Through the Argonne Forest from LaFayette—trees, trees, trees. There's Varennes with its gleaming Pennsylvania Memorial, on the high road to Baulny above the valley of the Aire river. Montblainville is over there on the opposite ridge with Chateau-Thierry and Marec. From Chateau-Thierry, an hour from Paris, you see Jaulgonne—Camery—Cohan; a little while longer, and there is Pismes and Pismettes.

SAINT and SINNER

Faith was already preparing for bed that night before Bob joined her in their room. He had been talking with Cherry about the business when Faith left to give Cherry's baby its feeding.

"Pretty hair," Bob remarked casually, as he lifted a strand of her long, shining, dark brown hair, which she was brushing conscientiously, despite her fatigue and the heat. "By the way, honey, I want you to get yourself a new dress for the Pruitts' dinner party. Something extra swank. I saw a gorgeous dress in a window today. The sign said it was the new nasturtium shade, and I thought of you right off. Blow yourself for once, sweet, and see how it feels!"

Faith smiled at him brilliantly, the pain which had constricted her heart all day magically relieved.

"I would like a new dress, a fluffy, foolish, impractical dress," she acknowledged.

"Then get the dress I'm talking about," Bob grinned, beginning to unfasten his collar. "It's in the Vanity Shop across from the Yellow Aster tea room. Cherry and I had lunch there today, and, as a matter of fact, it was Cherry that spotted the dress first. You'll be a peach in it, sweetheart."

So he had lunched with Cherry, too! Had worked with her all day, lunched with her, then had taken her for a swim!

"Did you pay for Cherry's lunch?" Faith was amazed to hear herself ask in a cold, hard voice.

Bob whirled upon her, incredulous astonishment on his face. And something more—a faint shadow of distaste.

"Listen, Faith," he spoke at last, in a tone he had never used to her before. "There's something funny in your attitude toward me—and Cherry. I gave her the job because it was open and I had to have someone. I figured that she would be safer from gossip and—possible entanglements—in my office than anywhere else in the business world. I think this family has had about enough notoriety and scandal. If you have any different ideas on the subject I'd like to know what they are. I think you owe to me—and to Cherry—to be frank. You've been looking like a martyr and an abused woman for the last two or three days and it's beginning to get on my nerves."

Faith backed away from him slowly, her eyes wide, staring, her lips suddenly almost as white as her face. Surely this could not be Bob—her husband—speaking to her in that cold, measured almost menacing tone!

And again she heard words coming from her mouth that she had had no intention of uttering. "So that's why you want me to get an expensive dress! You want to bribe me into being cheerful! I don't want it, Bob! Let Cherry have it! All I need is a house dress or a nursemaid's costume!"

She stared at each other after she had spoken. Then, before Faith, horrified at herself, could retract her words or apologize, Bob turned sharply on his heel and was striding toward the door.

ILLINOIS CITIES SHOW INTEREST IN ACADEMY OF ARTS

Already Six Towns of State Have Shown Fine Exhibit

LaSalle, Ill., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Following the lead of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, which in 1924, held the first all-state exhibit of art ever held in this country, chambers of commerce in six cities have carried on the work, and tonight the Illinois Academy of Fine Arts, outgrowth of the 1924 display, will open its exhibit in its thirteenth Illinois city. It came as a birthday gift to the city of LaSalle on its 75th anniversary, marked by its Diamond Jubilee. It will be LaSalle's first art exhibit in its 75 years.

Peoria, Sterling, Rock Island, Freeport and Rock Falls are the cities whose Chambers of Commerce have already backed exhibits of the Illinois Academy of Fine Arts, as a civic project. Indeed, support by the Peoria Association of Commerce drew the City of Peoria into it, and as a result Peoria has the reputation as the first city in the west to take such municipal organization of art. All civic organizations and clubs united with the City in aiding the move, and were assigned days on which their membership might meet in the gallery. Before Peoria broke the ice, all exhibits in the west had been backed only by schools, associations or individuals. Art journals in this country and Europe commented on the fact.

Probably the most active co-operation was given the Academy by the chamber of commerce in Freeport and Sterling. Forty-one merchants gave over their display windows for the exhibition of Illinois art, and all canvasses which could not thus be displayed for pedestrians, were gathered in the Masonic Temple at a cost of $200, paid by the chamber of commerce.

In Rock Island where there are several privately owned collections of art, the presence of the Academy exhibit was taken as an occasion for honoring its own artists who have gained world wide recognition.

OLDER CITIZENS REMEMBER SEC. ILLINOIS C. C.

C. G. Ferris Was Born in Dixon: Father
Had School Here

Carleton G. Ferris, newly elected general secretary of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, is an Illinois native son, having been born here where his father, U. S. Senator Woodbridge N. Ferris of Michigan, was conducting a school.

The family lived at Freeport and Pittsfield for several years and then moved to Big Rapids, Michigan, where the elder Ferris founded the Ferris Institute, a self-help school where students can earn their entire high school or college expense by working.

Ferris graduated from his father's school and later attended Purdue university where he received a B. S. degree. Later he studied law at the University of Michigan and in 1901 he started the practice of law at Detroit. He then took a whirl at the mail order business and then tried banking with his father, who founded the Big Rapids Savings bank about twenty-five years ago.

Returning to Illinois, he spent fourteen years in the investment business. In 1922 he went to Washington as private secretary to his father who had been elected to the senate after serving two terms as governor of Michigan.

In June, 1924, he started his career with the Illinois Chamber of Commerce in the membership department. He had studied transportation and chose that as his field of work. When the transportation department of the state Chamber of Commerce was formed with Stuyvesant Peabody as chairman, Ferris was appointed its secretary and remained there until named to his new job.

ANSWERS
1.—As the playing numeral of "Red Grange."
2.—After the Civil War, 1863.
3.—Carl Lundgren.
4.—Four—the State House, the Supreme court, the Centennial building and the State Arsenal.
5.—Nauvoo, on the Mississippi river.

The polls for said election will be opened at seven o'clock in the morning and continue open until five o'clock in the afternoon of that day.
DATED at Dixon, Illinois, this 26th day of July, A. D. 1927.

FARMERS OF ILL. TO HOLD ANNUAL PICNIC AUGUST 11

Outing Will be Held at Mooseheart: Great
Day is Planned

Mooseheart, Ill.—(AP)—Farmers of Illinois will lay aside their multiple duties and attend the annual picnic of the Illinois Agricultural Association, to be held here on Thursday, August 11. The I. A. A. has a membership totaling 63,000 and to this number you can add or multiply, to include members of the families. Judging from the interest which is being shown in the picnic, it is conservatively estimated that the attendance will be at least 50,000. The I. A. A. has a local organization in every county in Illinois.

It will be a family outing and the agriculturists will not pull a London cabby, but will play and visit and forget all about farming in all of its phases.

Mooseheart, with its 1,023 acres of land, which is the Loyal Order of Moose city of childhood—a combination of beautiful city and country combined, the first community in the northern part of the state to be selected as a site for the picnic was chosen, because of its beautiful groves, pure-bred live stock, farm land so fertile that when tickled with a hoe, it responds with a mountainous crop, for service, athletic fields, and it is easily accessible from all parts of Illinois and neighboring states. Mooseheart is on the Lincoln highway. It is also on the Fox River Valley trail, and state aid route number 22, which is the outer belt circling the Chicago territory.

To Theodore C. Miller, secretary to Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, who is director general of the Loyal Order of Moose goes the credit for inducing the agriculturists of central and southern Illinois to select Mooseheart, which is in the heart of northern Illinois' rich agricultural belt.

Mooseheart, founded 14 years ago by James J. Davis is the home of 1,300 children from all parts of the United States and Canada, and 130 of their mothers. The children are provided with every necessity of life, and are given an academic school education until the complete high school course and are taught a useful trade. Mooseheart service is purchased by fathers who are members of the Moose, by paying four cents a week.

Trucks Engaged in Public Works Must Pay Wheel Tax

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Motor vehicles engaged in public improvement work are not exempt from a wheel tax if such tax is imposed by local ordinance, in the opinion of Attorney General Carlstrom.

His opinion answered a query from the state's attorney at Murphysboro. A number of trucks and vehicles are being used there for local improvement work, the work being paid for by special assessment.

The principal place of business of the vehicles is in Carbondale. Both cities impose the wheel tax. The question arose as to whether the fact that the work was being done by special assessment would exempt the vehicles from wheel tax.

Carlstrom replied that he knew of no provision of law by which private owned vehicle could be so exempted. The tax, however, would be collected in Carbondale, he said, since the vehicles' owner resided there.

CARELESS USE OF MATCHES IS HIT BY GAMBER

State Fire Marshal's
Report Analyses
Fire Causes

Springfield, Ill., August 3.—(AP)—Careless smokers and persons reckless with matches were responsible for fires causing damages of $1,240,844 in the last twelve months, according to the report of John Gamber, state fire marshal. The report covers the fiscal year ending June 30.

The smokers and match throwers caused 2,318 fires the report shows. Electricity, exclusive of irons and electrical household devices, was responsible for the major share of Illinois' fire loss, with a total damage of $1,164,970 from 1,427 fires. Hot irons and other devices caused 224 more fires, with a total loss of $62,248.

Fire works were responsible for only 47 fires, doing damage of $10,449.

While no fires from lightning were reported from buildings that were rodded, 339 buildings which were not rodded were burned, with a loss of $602,608, said the report. Loss from fires with unknown origins totalled $9,278,818. More than 200 fires causing a loss of $1,249,806 were classified "origin unknown but investigation important."

Other causes of destructive flames were: overheated or destructive flues, cupolas and stacks, $6674,259; explosions, $1,064,240; incendiary, $1,016,359; stoves, furnaces, boilers, etc., $1,052,019; sparks on roofs, $160,441.

ALLEGED FAKE OIL SALESMAN WORKING STATE

Chamber Commerce
Gets Warning from State Chapter

The Dixon Chamber of Commerce has received the following warning from the Illinois organization:

A man giving his name as E. P. Martyn and his business as ice President of one of the largest Dallas banks, was in Belvidere this week, attempting to sell oil leases on a piece of land in Texas.

His scheme was to sell a 99-year lease in acre lots at $100. The lease was to be a blanket lease which entitled the holder thereof to his proportionate share of any oil which might be discovered on a sixty-five acre tract.

A wire from the Chamber of Commerce at Dallas, Texas, states that they have been unable to find Mr. E. P. Martyn as ice President of any bank in Dallas.

STATE LEGION IS 3000 SHORT OF MEMBER GOAL

Seeking 70,000 Signed
Up Before Ill.
Convention

Bloomington, Ill., August 3.—(AP)—With the state convention less than a month away the Illinois department of the American Legion is just 3,000 members short of the goal of 70,000 set for the convention, Ferro C. Watkins, Illinois commander, announced today.

This number, Watkins said, is 13,000 members ahead of the same time last year and is 10,000 members ahead of any other state department of the Legion.

Previous high mark for Illinois membership was 62,000 in 1921.

This year Pennsylvania is second with 56,000, and New York is third with 55,700.

Mr. Watkins regarded this growth as "the greatest success any department ever had."

"It is particularly due," he said "to the fact that the members have gotten down to bed rock and are seriously dedicated to the Legion work."

Illinois has 1,100 reservations for the national convention at Paris, Watkins said. In the parade through Paris, this state's representation will lead all other larger departments, although six of the smaller departments will precede, since position in the parade is predicated upon percentage of growth.

Chicago Seeks K. P. Convention in 1928

Chicago, August 3.—(AP)—Although the Illinois Grand Lodge, Knights of Pythias, will hold its 1927 sessions in Galesburg next month, the 1928 meeting already has been invited here by the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Sol Scheffer, state chairman of publicity, said that in addition to the association invitation Daniel H. Ross, of Benton, grand chancellor of the order, has for some time been receiving letters from bankers, lawyers and business men of Chicago, urging that next year's meeting be held here. The 1927 grand lodge meets in Galesburg on Sept. 27, 28 and 29 next.

The order maintains eighteen homes in as many states for aged Pythians, their widows and orphans. There are 4,000 such residents in these homes, which represent a $6,000,000 investment by the fraternity. The Illinois Pythians maintain their homes at Decatur, W. H. Stephens of Danville is secretary of the Illinois Pythian home board.

Springfield Girls Wearing No Stockings

Springfield, Ill., August 3.—(AP)—Scores of girls have adopted the fad of appearing in public places in Springfield without stockings. They are seen everywhere, on the streets, the golf links, at dances and in the theaters. They are more comfortable without stockings, they say.

X-rays may disclose the secrets of synthetic rubber, it is said.

How to Protect the Throat When Smoking

What 9651* Doctors say on this subject

The signed statements of intelligent men and women whose voices are to them what the hands of the day laborer are to him—the means indispensable to livelihood or success in life—are convincing. Actors and actresses, great singers, men conspicuous in public life, radio announcers, testify that they like LUCKY STRIKE cigarettes because of their finer flavor and because they do not irritate the throat.

Before such statements by laymen were published, questions had been addressed to a number of physicians in various sections of the United States—many of them leading physicians—and some replies had been received. The following is the result of the questionnaire:

Q1—In your judgment is the heat treatment or toasting process applied to tobaccos previously aged and cured, likely to free the cigarette from irritation to the throat?

9651 doctors answered this question "YES".

Q2—Do you think from your experience with LUCKY STRIKE cigarettes that they are less irritating to sensitive or tender throats than other cigarettes, whatever the reason?

11,105 doctors answered this question "YES".

SYNOPSIS
Fabien, good and handsome youth of France, trains for the priesthood; but meets and loves Manon Lescaut, beautiful orphan, whose rascally brother, realizing her worldly value, barters her to Ravaur, rich connoisseur of women. Fabien saves her and carries her off to Paris, where they live happily together. Manon's brother steals her for Ravaur; she escapes, and searches vainly for Fabien. Circumstances force her to surrender to Ravaur. Fabien, thinking her perfidious, returns to his priestly studies. Manon resolves to see him.

CHAPTER XIII—Continued

Manon had never been able to understand Fabien's cruelty to her that night at the Gambling Club. It seemed as though he should have appreciated that the situation her brother created was a million times harder for her to live than for him to think about. Yet he gave her contempt instead of compassion!

At the close of the service on the day before Fabien was to take his final vows, he knelt in prayer. A wonderful, spiritual expression transfigured his features. After a year of shattering conflict supreme peace was his and before another sun had set he was prepared to relinquish all worldly pleasures and become a Priest.

Rising from prayer with the little book in his hands he reverently passed the altar just as an altar boy snuffed out the last candle and went on his way. The Church was deserted save for Fabien. The last rays from the setting sun streamed in through the tall stained glass windows and mingled their beauty with the mystery of heavy incense and the deep stillness of the great auditorium.

On his way out Fabien paused before the image of Mary Magdalen. The beautiful features made a shadow fall across his serene face, because she reminded him of Manon. And why shouldn't she? Mary Magdalen had been forgiven by One far greater than he! Fabien closed his eyes in an effort to blot out both the image and the thought.

Advancing down the corridor he glimpsed a silhouette in the shadows and as he drew nearer, the figure came within the radiance of a window. Fabien stood as still as if a barrier had stopped his progress. It was Manon!

CHAPTER XIV

More bewitching than ever, Manon was enveloped in a long cloak with the hood covering her hair. She was tremulous, uncertain, even humble, yet still so young and dove-like that her beauty beggared all description.

Fabien was like one enchanted. He felt it must be some trickery—Manon, of all people in the world, alone with him in the church when he had given up all idea of ever seeing her again.

Unable to divine the purpose of her visit, he waited, trembling, not daring to look at her. For a moment her embarrassment was equal to his own, then she realized that he had no intention of breaking the silence and murmured tremulously, "Fabien."

Her appeal brought forth only a stern and set expression to his face. He did not even raise his eyes.

Manon continued, beseechingly: "I saw your name posted for examinations and attended all week in the hope of seeing you. Fabien, dear, I must talk with you—my heart has been broken." The tears fell unheeded. "You are thinking unfair things of me. I could not help what I did. My brother and the Comte forced me into that hideous situation. I was powerless. They told me that you would be arrested for abduction and that I could save you only by leaving. But I went back to our room and was told that you never wanted to see me again. I have never ceased loving you."

Unwilling to hear more, Fabien turned away. Manon stopped her explanation and watched him with tragic eyes. His entire manner indicated that he was through with her. It was more than she could bear.

"Fabien!" The cry came from a broken heart.

As Manon took a step toward him her cloak fell back revealing her lovely neck and arms covered with jewels. On her white wigged head reposed a diamond circlet that sparkled in rainbow colors, reflecting the setting sun as it streamed through the great stained glass window. Her white satin gown stood out vividly against the dark background of the cloister. There she stood, alluring, her tempting lips parted appealingly, her charming figure revealed in all its slender perfection. The fresh fragrance of her personality, mingled with the subtle perfume from her hair and gown, affected Fabien like a stimulant and made his senses whirl madly, driving the pounding blood through his dormant veins.

Manon approached and Fabien watched her as though hypnotized, but when her hands stole up to his shoulders he awakened from his trance with a start and pushed her away.

"Wanton!" he cried scathingly. "You are as glib as the hell you come from." His eyes blazed with a holy and righteous anger against this woman whose touch made him forget his duty and think only of the world, the flesh and her!

Manon remained motionless during his condemnation, but she sobbed in agony when he turned away and went out into the garden, like a Saint madly fighting the devil.

Manon gathered up her cloak and followed. "I cannot blame you," she said simply, her eyes soft with love and adoration. "All you say of me is probably true—but I love you!"

The words were like a lash across Fabien's face and he retaliated by demanding harshly: "What about your lover—the man who buys all these jewels and decks you in satin gowns?" He indicated her expensive attire with a gesture of disgust.

"I am no longer with him," she replied hopefully, then continued: "I hated him and his house as soon as I could manage to escape. I have not even seen him for months."

"Then who are you with now, to give you all these things?" Fabien was still contemptuous as he indicated her jewels.

"Fabien!" Manon was hurt and shocked. "No one, you should know that. The Comte had given them to me, so I took them away." When she saw the effect of her words she added regretfully, "I am sorry, Fabien, but I shall always love jewels and beautiful clothes."

Fabien realized the utter helplessness of the situation. She was not to blame after all. Neither was it wrong for a woman to crave pretty things. He found himself regretting that he had not been the one to lavish luxuries upon her!

"Fabien, why should we be unhappy all the rest of our lives? We know that we were made only for each other and if you refuse me I shall die and you will never know a woman's peace." Manon was pleading for Fabien's love, to her the only worth while thing in the world.

"Leave—I never want to see you again!" he said sternly.

"You don't mean that. You couldn't! You are being cruel to yourself and to me. I know you love me or I never would have come here to save us both from everlasting misery. Fabien!" with a little moan Manon clung to Fabien, pleading with her body as she had pleaded with her voice and heart. But when she felt no response she sank helplessly to the ground and leaned against his knees. She pressed close and reaching up grasped his arm with both hands and stroked it lovingly. "Please... dear...!" she implored.

Gradually Fabien relaxed. He could not muster sufficient courage to meet her eyes, but he knew she was there—he felt her presence! With clenched hands forced straight down at his sides he raised his face in prayer.

Looking up, Manon saw and understood that she had not won him back. She fell in a crumpled heap at his feet. Her face was almost on the ground as she cried piteously, "You are my one friend; if you send me away, what will become of me?"

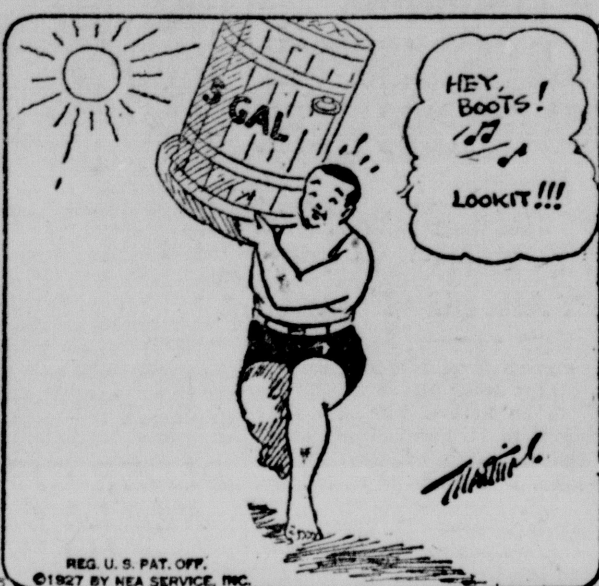

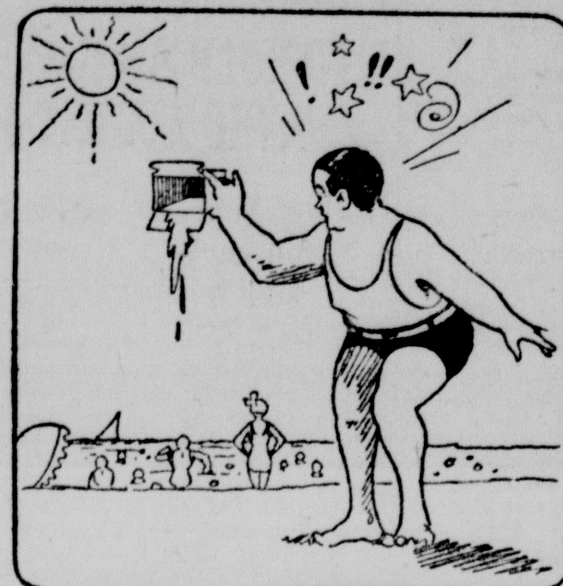

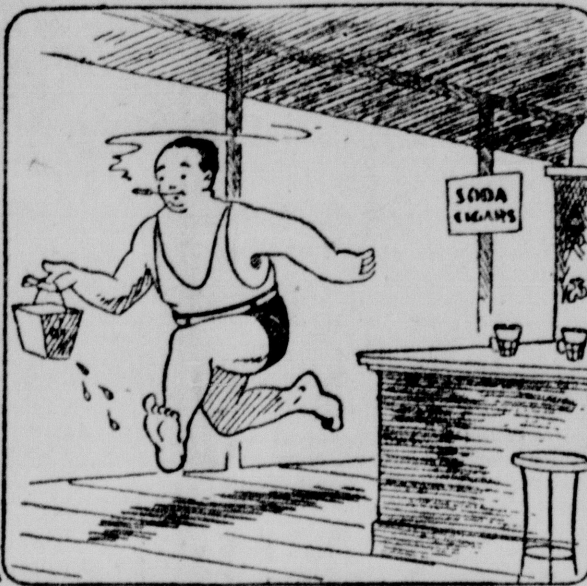

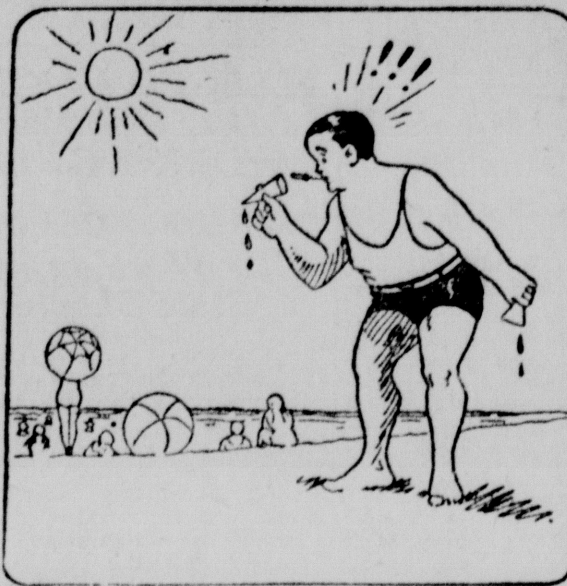

Unable to resist such a truly feminine appeal for protection Fabien looked slowly upon her as she bowed there at his feet. With a start there came to him the resemblance between her attitude and that of the image of Mary Magdalen. His expression softened as he encountered the look of adoration and worship in her upturned face.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
VERA CAMERON, assistant manager for the Peach Bloom Cosmetics Co., indignantly rejects Jerry's plan to transform her, with the aid of Peach Bloom cosmetics, from the old-maid type she is into a beauty, and to use her photographs in the company's advertising copy.

However, when she falls suddenly in love with a man whom she hears called SCHUYLER, and who remarks to a companion he will be in Lake Minnetonka in late June, she reconsiders Jerry's offer and resolves to undergo anything to become beautiful. She must meet this man whom she has seen but once and to do this she decides to go to Minnetonka.

Vera's sea-green eyes remind Jerry Macklyn of an unexplained Sunday supplement picture he has in his desk and he has the heavy specialist refashion Vera after this picture.

Vera's aunt, Flora Cartwright, is thoroughly astonished at the change wrought in her once homely niece and is a little jealous also.

Flora becomes infatuated with Jerry and tells him that Vera is going to Lake Minnetonka to see a man with whom she is in love. By this time Jerry is desperately in love with the girl whom he has made into a beauty. Just before Vera leaves the office to go on her vacation, Jerry comes in with the proofs of the advertising which contain her photographs. She begs him not to use them, saying it will humiliate her. He says, "I'll tear these ads up on one condition—that you give up your trip to Minnetonka."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XI

THAT evening, as Vera Cameron was dressing for her journey and for her last engagement with Jerry Macklyn, she studied her reflection in the mirror with worried eyes, but occasionally a wicked little smile tugged at the dimple in the left corner of her mouth.

The slight of the nodding, wickedly smiling face in the mirror startled her.

But there was no terror apparent in the exquisite face and in the limpid clear green pools that were her eyes when she advanced, walking proudly, to meet Jerry Macklyn a half hour later.

"Dear Jerry!" she said softly, as she gave him both her hands, standing so close to him that the perfume he had been at such pains to find for her wrapped him about like an exquisite, invisible cloak.

"It's awfully sweet of you to come to take me to the train. I'm going to miss you—terribly!" She hesitated before the last word, then dropped it gently, like a shy caress.

"Then you're going to Lake Minnetonka?" Jerry demanded savagely.

"Don't be foolish, Jerry!" she chided him softly. "Of course I'm going to Minnetonka! My reservations are already made. I've spent hundreds and hundreds of dollars for clothes, which I couldn't possibly wear at a less exclusive resort."

"Oh, shut up!" Jerry commanded her angrily. "You know why I don't want you to go! My God, you must know or you're blind or a fool or both! You said you couldn't bear for me to print those advertisements with your pictures. There are one or two things I can't bear about you, Vera. One is your voice broke and he flung up an arm.

"You shan't talk to me like that!" Vera cried passionately. "I'm not trying to trap a rich man into marrying me! I'd rather he was a poor man—a salaried man, working for his living, doing something in which I could help him with my business training. I tell you, I don't care for his money and his social position! I only want him, because I love him—"

"Don't say that!" he struck out at her sharply, his voice rough with agony. "You're talking like a matinee-idol-worshipping flapper! You don't know what love is! You've seen him only once, you know nothing about him—"

"How do you know?" Vera's green eyes widened in angry amazement. "I've never told you—"

"But Flora did, when she saw what was happening to me," Jerry told her savagely. "Tried to keep me from making a blanket-blank fool of myself by putting me wise to the fact that you were already dead gone on another man—"

"She was very unselfish," Vee-Vee interrupted with cold sarcasm.

"Oh, for God's sake, let's not quarrel, Vee-Vee," Jerry begged with sudden humility. "I love you too much to hurt you—"

"You—love me?" she echoed in a small voice. "Jerry—I'm sorry—"

"Oh, I don't want your pity!" He flung a furious hand across his eyes.

"I thought these last three weeks were a game that you were enjoying in the same way that I enjoyed it," Vee-Vee said weakly, groping for a chair.

"A game? Oh, dear God!" Jerry groaned, dropping to the floor beside her and laying his head against her knees.

Vee-Vee's slim, white fingers fluttered to his head, hovered for a moment over that flaming mop of red curls as if she were afraid it would burn her, then dropped lightly upon it.

"Don't! I can't stand that!" Jerry flung up his head sharply, seized her caressing hand and crushed it against his grief-twisted.

"Dear Jerry," she said softly. "It's awfully sweet of you to come."

hot lips. "Vee-Vee! Can't you love me a little, darling? I'll be so good to you, understand you so well. I can make you happy, Vera—why, you're mine! I created you! You belong to me!"

"If you had loved me—before—when I was homely and needed you—or any man—to adore me, to release me from the inhibitions that make every homely girl miserable—"

"I'm not going to lie and pretend that I fell in love with you the moment you walked into my office," Jerry said slowly, heavily, the hand that he had held held tight against his pounding heart, "but I can tell you truthfully that I did begin to love you when I snatched off your spectacles and looked into your eyes. I didn't know it then, of course, but I had never so wanted to help anyone in my life. And I could have loved you as you were then as well as I do now. I performed a miracle for your own sake—"

"And for advertising purposes," Vera reminded him, tugging to release her hand.

"I'm an advertising man," Jerry admitted wilyly. "My work comes first, and you wouldn't have the slightest respect for me if it didn't. I saw a chance to do something really big for the firm. You're a business woman; you ought to be able to understand my feeling toward my work."

"Oh, I do!" Vee-Vee acknowledged. "But today I asked you to do something for me that is of vital importance to me. I told you that it would cause me agonies of shame to have my picture strewn all over the country to advertise Peach Bloom Cosmetics. I asked you to suppress those ads, to substitute a professional beauty for me—a girl who would like that sort of thing—"

Vee-Vee reached Minnetonka. Will her dreams come true? Will she captivate the man who has so completely captivated her?

Browns to Play Twin

City Greys on Sunday

The Twin City Greys of Sterling Rock Falls have accepted the challenge of the Dixon Browns for a game at the Dixon park on next Sunday. The Greys have lost but one game this season and are coming here with the full intention of taking home the bacon. Last Sunday the Greys defeated Brandenburg's Stars 37 to 6. Most of their games have been won by a large score as they have a heavy hitting outfit. The Browns will be all ready for them, and the local fans can look for a real game.

THINK DEMPSEY WILL AGREE TO RICKARD'S DATE

Wife's Physician Says She Is Not Seriously Ill Now

Chicago, Aug. 3—(AP)—Jack Dempsey's opposition to entering the ring before Sept. 26 today continued to be the chief item of interest in his engagement with Gene Tunney for the world's heavyweight title.

In a statement at Los Angeles last night, he made known that he "wanted to be right" for the fight, and said he did not see why Rickard would not delay the bout until after Sept. 26, to give him an opportunity of getting into the proper mental condition.

"I see no reason why Rickard can't grant me the favor I ask, delaying the fight until the last week of September, because of the illness of my wife," Dempsey said.

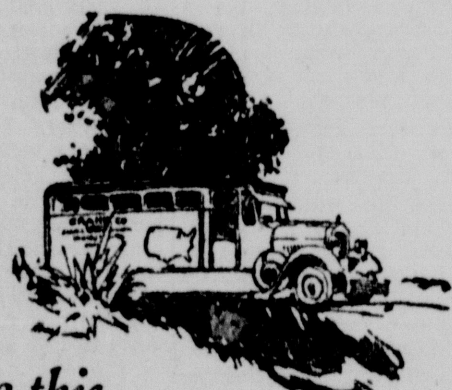

However, Dempsey's close friends intimated they thought Jack would ultimately agree to Rickard's plans, after learning from his wife's physician that her condition was not as serious as he supposed. The doctor said Mrs. Dempsey would be able to accompany her husband east in time for the proposed fight date, Sept. 15 or 22.

With the stadium rented, the promoter's license issued, and all other necessities arranged for, Chicago fight fans and officials were of the opinion that the date of Rickard's choice eventually will prevail.

Rickard and George Getz, the nominal promoter, said they were anxious to hold the match on the original date, but might delay it until the 22nd, if necessary. Dempsey's plea for the later date was vetoed because the stadium is unavailable after Sept. 25.

"JOHNSON DAY" AT WASHINGTON WAS BIG EVENT

But "Old Train" was Not Able to Beat First Enemy

Washington, Aug. 3—(AP)—Walter Johnson, Washington's veteran pitching ace, rounded out his twentieth anniversary in major league baseball with a defeat just as in his league debut.

Against the same opponents of two decades ago, Detroit, Johnson hurled a losing game, 7-6, yesterday before 20,000 fans. Despite his defeat, he set a new record for strikeouts with 3,455 strikeouts. But unlike twenty years ago, Johnson was not credited with the defeat, the official scorer charging it against Braxton who relieved him in the ninth and yielded three runs.

It was "Johnson Day" and fans presented "Old Barney" with a silver service and plan to erect a permanent memorial for him—a sun dial.

From his teammates, he received a silver water pitcher and tray, while the Washington and Detroit clubs gave him a check for $14,746.95 representing the excess gate receipts over the expenses for the week.

From the American League came the distinguished service cross. President Coolidge tendered his praise in a letter saying Johnson "has been an influence in clean living and clean sport."

FIRST CALL IS ISSUED FOR ILL. Y M C A MEETING

Convention to be Held at Bloomington During September

Chicago, Ill.—(AP)—First call for the annual convention of state associations of Y. M. C. A.'s has been sent out from state headquarters here. The convention opens in Bloomington, September 8.

Speakers have not yet been announced, but following the yearly custom the six following questions of paramount interest in the "Y" work will be discussed in round table groups:

"Who is responsible for the success of the Y. M. C. A.?" "How may the efficiency of the association be tested?" "Are satisfactory results being obtained?"

"Should the 'Y' be run as a strictly business proposition?" "What part of the 'Y' work is most in need of strengthening?" "What is the most successful way to finance the association?"

Representatives from the 93 associations and branches in this state will gather at the convention.

The Illinois Y. M. C. A. has total property holdings of $15,720,948.00 and 61,686 members.
